"Putting Wi-Fi in schools; allowing cordless phones that radiate constantly to be manufactured; placing wireless baby monitors near an infant; using a wireless tablet, smart phone or computer while pregnant; holding a cell phone next to the head and keeping a cell phone in a bra or hip pocket or under a pillow; placing cell phone antennas near homes, schools and on hospitals; metering electricity, water and gas with wireless smart meters and designing smart appliances for the home will be viewed by future generations as dumb technology generated by greed for a population that is largely ignorant of the consequences. We need to protect the health and wellbeing of future generations, because without them there is no future! If we don't do it . . . who will?" Dr Magda Havas, PhD, Environmental and Resource Studies, Centre for Health Studies, Trent University, Canada. www.emfscientist.org

Did you know?

EMF Unleashing Retroviruses

Dr Dietrich Klinghardt contends the real cause of chronic disease is retroviruses being unleashed by chronic exposure to Wi-Fi radiation. Viruses deeply embedded in the DNA for probably millions of years have been silenced by our different wonderful administrative mechanisms that we have in our cells. The real culprit is that these retroviruses, once they are unleashed, once they are self-duplicating, cause symptoms very similar to AIDs, referred to as AIDs minor. He also contends chronic exposure to EMF has also damaged our immune system by damaging our microbiome.

Klinghardt comments every patient he ever tested who had a diagnosis of electro-sensitivity turned out to test positive for Lyme. Bugs (chronic infections) think they are being attacked and they step up their biotoxin production and virulence the moment one enters any electromagnetic field. Lyme disease leads to demyelination - nerves lose some of their protection – and the nerves become much more readily affected by electromagnetic radiation

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GvX1cv6V-PE&feature=youtu.be

