

“Putting Wi-Fi in schools; allowing cordless phones that radiate constantly to be manufactured; placing wireless baby monitors near an infant; using a wireless tablet, smart phone or computer while pregnant; holding a cell phone next to the head and keeping a cell phone in a bra or hip pocket or under a pillow; placing cell phone antennas near homes, schools and on hospitals; metering electricity, water and gas with wireless smart meters and designing smart appliances for the home will be viewed by future generations as dumb technology generated by greed for a population that is largely ignorant of the consequences. We need to protect the health and wellbeing of future generations, because without them there is no future! If we don't do it . . . who will?” Dr Magda Havas, PhD, Environmental and Resource Studies, Centre for Health Studies, Trent University, Canada. www.emfscientist.org

*The inescapable conclusion of these findings is that the twentieth century epidemic of the so-called diseases of civilization, including cardiovascular disease, cancer, diabetes and also suicide, was caused by electrification and the unique biological responses we have to it. A large proportion of these diseases may therefore be preventable.*¹

In 1930, urban cancer rates were 58.8% higher than rural cancer rates.² The data to prove this has been available since 1930 but no one investigated it. In 2009, a ground-breaking study on the history of electrification of 48 states of the USA was published. Also compared were urban populations that lived with electricity and the rural areas which did not have electricity.³
